The University of Colorado Global Entrepreneurs in Residence Pilot Program

The Global Entrepreneurs in Residence Program (GEIR) program will help to increase student success through the integration of GEIRs into cross campus entrepreneurship initiatives. It will also allow non-U.S. nationals to use the University's H-1B visa program to come to, or stay in, Boulder. All GEIRs would be able to use this opportunity to engage in the emerging cross-campus entrepreneurship initiative at CU-Boulder while also starting, or continuing to work on, their own companies.

- Who:
 - College or Graduate School graduates with a track record in, or a very strong interest in, entrepreneurship, technology commercialization, and leadership.

- What:
 - An opportunity to work part-time on campus for up to 20 hours per week, supporting the CU-Boulder entrepreneurship and commercialization efforts, including the New Venture Challenge, a range of teaching and extracurricular activities, and the Catalyze CU program.
 - Where appropriate, an opportunity to apply for a Cap Exempt H-1B Visa from the University and a second H-1B Visa for an existing (or future) startup enterprise (which would also be Cap Exempt due to the University Visa).
 - Grow a business in the very supportive, collaborative, and dynamic entrepreneurial community of Boulder, Colorado.

- When:
 - Applications will be accepted starting April 1, 2015.
 - EIR terms will begin in August 2015 on a one-year basis with an opportunity for renewal up to three years.

How to Apply: Interested applicants should send a Resume and a Cover Letter, including a statement of interest, to John Delva at john-scott.delva@colorado.edu.
